Rarick Won't Admit Defeat to McDonald Despite Offical Tally

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Millhand Donald C. Rarick, unsuccessful in his bid to unseat David J. McDonald as president of the United Steelworkers, said today he would not concede defeat until convinced of the "honesty of the vote count."

"I will not concede this election," he said, when informed the official tally of the union's Feb. 12 election gave McDonald 404,172 votes and Rarick 223,516.

The size of Rarick's vote was surprising. He had not been expected to poll so many votes since he had only four months to campaign. In addition, he had no real organization behind him and no funds.

Asks For Breakdown

"I will not concede," he said, "until such time as I have been furnished with a breakdown of the voting, local by local."

The 1,200,000-member union has 2,700 locals.

Rarick, of nearby McKeesport, Pa., said he has "concrete evidence of many irregularities" in the voting at the local level.

"Until I have been fully satisfied as to the honesty of the vote count at the local level, I will make no concessions," he said.

Rarick, a $7,500 a year millhand at U.S. Steel's Irvin Works near here, led a rank and file action which protested an increase in Steelworkers' dues. Later, Rarick expanded the fight to include the policies of McDonald and his administration.

McDonald, who receives $50,000 a year, was not available for comment.

Plans Renewed Battle

Rarick said the protest vote against McDonald "cannot go unheeded." He said his faction would continue its fight.

Rarick set these four goals:

Reduction of dues; new elections in districts where rank and file members allegedly were kept off the ballot; establishment of an ethical practices committee pledged to "stamp out corruption and tyranny wherever it appears"; an amendment to the union constitution giving an election candidate the right to be present when the votes are counted.

One member of Rarick's faction was victorious in the February election. Paul M. Hilbert defeated McDonald's candidate, incumbent John R. Sullivan, for director of District 15 in the McKeesport-Homestead, Pa., area.

Judge McWherter Services Held In Greensburg

Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Greensburg for George H. McWherter, judge of Westmoreland County common pleas court for 15 years. He died Wednesday following a lengthy illness. He was 68.

Twenty-one county officials and other residents were honorary pallbearers. Active pallbearers were members of the Greensburg police force.

McWherter was buried in Coles Cemetery, Derry.

The complete list of honorary pallbearers follows:

Judge Richard D. Laird, Judge Rabe F. Marsh, Judge Charles D. Copeland, Judge Edward G. Bauer, all of Greensburg; Judge John M. O'Connell and Fred B. Trescher, of Jeannette; District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco, of New Kensington; Sheriff Howard Bud Thomas, Edward L. McArdle, and Oscar C. Rash, Greensburg; Thomas Donnelly, of Ligonier; Rudolph Lynch, of Latrobe; Vincent R. Smith, Marquis M. Smith, Alex McConnell, and James Gregg, of Greensburg; A. C. Scales, of Trafford; Henry E. Shaw, of Derry; George Sweeney, of West Newton; Arthur B. Turner, of Pricedale; Alexander Copeland, of Mt. Pleasant; Jerome J. Kilgore of Greensburg; John V. Kerr, Harry E. Leslie, and Harry P. Patterson, of Derry.

Trades Council Pickets Dairy Bar Construction

Charging that non-union labor is being used, the Monongahela Valley Building Construction Trades Council (AFL-CIO) today threw up a picket line in front of a dairy bar being erected on Monessen-Pricedale Rd.

Al Byers, of Iron City Hill, is the contractor for the building being built for Nazareth Victoria, also of Monessen-Pricedale Rd.

Union business agents Eugene Conen, representing plumbers, and Sam Conrad, representing carpenters, said that non-union plumbers, carpenters and electricians are being used on the construction.

The picket line, the agents said, was thrown up to stop further work and to organize the non-union workers.

The agents said they have made attempts to negotiate with Byers and Victoria but "They won't talk about it. So what can we do but continue picketing."

Byers and Victoria were not available for comment.

DENIES TERRORISM — Joseph McHugh, Teamsters local business agent, protests his innocence after he was accused of being one of the so-called masterminds behind labor terrorism in Scranton, Pa. He was charged previously with having fomented beatings and vandalism.

Beck May Speed His Return to Face Committee

WASHINGTON (UP) — Teamsters Union President Dave Beck may speed his return engagement before the Senate Labor Rackets Committee if he avoids his day of 'reckoning with the AFL-CIO.

Committee member Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) told reporters that if the AFL-CIO proves unable to enforce its ethics code against Beck, the committee may change its schedule and recall him quickly for questioning about his private business deals with the union through firms in which he holds an interest.

"The committee has developed additional information that the Teamsters, the public and the Congress should know," Mundt said.

Beck Friday challenged the right of the AFL-CIO Executive Council to expel him from its membership. He said he still considers himself a council member.

He also demanded that the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee provide detailed accusations and guarantee fair procedures when it holds hearings next month on corruption charges against him and his union.

Sun Oil Raises Price of Gasoline

Sun Oil Company today increased its wholesale price of gasoline in varying amounts throughout Pennsylvania ranging from seven-tenths of a cent a gallon in Philadelphia and adjacent counties to one and one-half cents per gallon in Western Pennsylvania.

The price change was made to meet competitive conditions the Company said. The new posting of 16.1 cents per gallon in Western Pennsylvania is the same as on January 12 when the price was raised to reflect an increase in crude oil prices.

Eight Hospitalized in Brooklyn; Near Panic Among 300 Passengers

NEW YORK (UP) — Seventy-seven persons were injured Friday night when a subway train slammed into the rear of a second stalled train in a Brooklyn tunnel.

Eight of the injured were hospitalized. Two were reported in serious condition, including the motorman of the moving train. William Hoke, 46, who was pinned in the seat of his car for an hour and a half before being freed by police and fire rescue workers.

The injured, including 13 children, were treated at four hospitals, most of them for cuts, bruises and shock.

Riders Thrown Around

Momentary hysteria spread through both trains in the darkened tunnel after the crash, which jolted most of the 300 passengers in the two trains from their seats. Many riders were sent sprawling to the floor by the impact, which also shattered windows, ripped loose seats and dimmed lights.

Panic was averted by train crewmembers who calmly opened doors and instructed passengers, many of them hysterical, to walk along catwalks to nearby stations.

Seven ambulances and disaster units from three hospitals raced to the scene to care for the injuerd.

The first train, a local en route from Brooklyn to Queens, had just negotiated a 90 degree bend in the tunnel beneath a Brooklyn street when it was brought to an automatic stop by a defective brake. The motorman, Victor P. O'Brien, 41, climbed down to the tracks, released the jammed brake and returned to his cab.

Train Rammed From Behind

As he prepared to restart the eight car train, it was rammed by an eight-car subway train, also Queens-bound. Near panic ensued in both trains, although neither was derailed.

Hoke told investigators he halted his train when he saw two red signals ahead, a warning to approaching trains to stop. He said he restarted the train, however, when the signal changed to two red lights and a yellow—a signal to proceed at his own discretion. His train was moving slowly, at less than 15 miles an hour, when the crash took place, Hoke said.

Transit authorities said the casualty figure probably would have been much higher on a normal Friday. The Good Friday observance had reduced the traffic load considerably, they said.

Khrushchev Asks Japan to Join In Atomic Ban

MOSCOW (UP) — Soviet Communist Party Chief Nikita S. Khrushchev proposed today that the Soviet Union and Japan make a joint appeal to the United States and Britain for an immediate ban on nuclear weapons tests.

Khrushchev made the proposal to Japanese Ambassador Suemitsu Tadowaki in an hour-long talk today at Communist Party Central Committee headquarters.

The meeting took place at Tadow Aki's request.

Khrushchev was reported to have criticized Japan for failing to support the Soviet proposal submitted to the United Nations urging immediate outlawing of nuclear tests.

According to sources close to the Japanese embassy, Khrushchev said Russia stands on its previously stated position that it is ready to end atomic tests but that the West refuses to accept an agreement that would make this possible.

Khrushchev also was quoted as saying "the Soviet Union is unable to terminate the testing of nuclear weapons without a stable agreement from the West."

(But the Soviet Union, according to Western monitors, has been recently carrying out an intensive series of nuclear test blasts. Five such tests have been reported by Western monitors in the past two weeks.)

'Drag' River For Missing Boat Crewman

Firemen continued to "drag" the Monongahela River today near Point Marion in an effort to locate a riverboat crewman who apparently slipped into the churning waters.

Believed dead by drowning is Benjamin Hall, 36, of Pittsburgh, a second engineer on the riverboat "Patsy Hillman."

Hall was believed to have slipped into the river yesterday at 1 a. m. while checking pumps. It was some time before the crew detected that he was missing.

Firemen have been covering a three mile area in their drag operations.

Local Youth Is Hurt in Cycle-Car Crash

A Monessen youth, Larry Maykovich, 17, of 1210 Hillcrest Ave., was injured slightly yesterday afternoon when the motorcycle he was riding was involved in an accident with a car on Route 906, about one mile north of Belle Vernon, State Police said today.

Maykovich received lacerations of the face and right hand, it was stated. He did not require hospitalization.

Maykovich was a passenger on a motorcycle operated by James Dale Lear, 17, of 1225 Marion Ave., Monessen, when it collided with a car driven by Edward Sims, 46, of 309 First Ave., Belle Vernon.

Damage amounted to about $200.

GM President's Income Drops

NEW YORK (UP)—The income of General Motors President Harlow H. Curtice dropped by 80,300 last year, but the head of the nation's second biggest industrial enterprise still received a total of $696,100, it was disclosed Friday.

The largest income slice, however, was that of GM board chairman Albert Bradley. His income, including bonuses and stocks, was cut from $691,525 in 1955 to $341,000 last year.

Ten directors received a total of $13,946,196. Fourteen directors shared the $13,879,679 stock, bonus and salary pot last year. Only four directors surpassed $500,000 in 1956, four less than in 1955.

Local, Area Churches Plan Special Services Tomorrow

The Resurrection of Christ from the tomb in Jerusalem over 1900 years ago will be observed in Monessen Catholic, Protestant and Orthodox churches tomorrow, Easter Sunday.

Sunrise services are scheduled for many Protestant churches tomorrow while most Catholic churches will begin having services late tonight. Midnight masses will climax most services. Catholics, in most cases, will follow their regular Sunday schedule for masses tomorrow.

The Lenten season will end today for those Protestant churches that had it on the calendar this year. The Lenten season for Catholics ends at midnight tonight.

The Orthodox churches in Monessen will also observe Easter tomorrow. Ordinarily, because of the difference in calendars, the Orthodox observes Easter later than Protestant and Catholic churches. Tomorrow is one of the few times that Orthodox Easter falls at the same time as Protestant and Catholic churches.

Following is a list of Easter services at the various churches:

PROTESTANT

United Presbyterian — Sunday: Holy Communion, 8 a. m.; church school, 9:30 a. m., and worship services, 10:45 a. m. The Rev. Lee Corey, pastor.

Stage All Set For Promenade Here Tomorrow

The stage is all set for the second annual Easter Promenade to be held in Monessen tomorrow, Easter Sunday.

Sponsored by the Merchants Group of the Chamber of Commerce, the Promenade will take place on the sidewalks of Donner and Schoonmaker avenues between Fourth and Sixth streets between 1:15 and 2:30 p. m.

Fifty merchandise certificates valued at $5 each will be awarded persons judged as wearing the prettiest bonnet, smartest-looking shoes, most colorful gloves, eye-appealing dresses and just about everything else that is part of the Easter wardrobe for women and girls.

Men and boys, too are expected to wear their flashiest shirts and ties, most impeccable-looking shirts and distinctive-appearing hats, homburgs or snap brims.

Prizes will also be awarded to the best-dressed family consisting of three or more members.

Judges will be by unidentified Monessen residents who will walk with the paraders. Anyone walking in the designated areas during the specified time is eligible for prizes.

Mayor Hugo J. Parente and Charles W. Hagerstad, Chamber president, will be the Promenade. Edward Lhota is chairman.

Dance at Turner Hall Saturday, Apr. 20, featuring Johnny Teshor and Rhythm Trio.

Chances of showers and possible thunderstorms have been forecast for most of the district tomorrow.

The weather is expected to be quite warm with highs in the low 80's.

Scattered thundershowers were expected to move into the western sections of the state late this afternoon.

Passover Services Are Planned Here

The festival of Passover, which covers an eight-day period, will be concluded with special services at Kneseth Israel Synagogue tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday.

Evening services will be held at 7 o'clock Sunday and Monday and morning services at 8:30 Monday and Tuesday.

The feature of Tuesday's service will be the Yizkor prayers, or memorial prayers. These are said four times a year in Jewish houses of worship as public prayers for the departed.

Rabbi Theodore Stampfer will be in charge of services.

Zundel Auto Is Destroyed by Fire

A fire of mysterious origin this morning destroyed the interior of a car owned by Earl Zundel, Jr., of R. D., Belle Vernon.

Firemen were summoned to the Zundel home about 5:45. Belle Vernon and North Belle Vernon firemen extinguished the blaze.

Break Ground For School Next Week

Ground-breaking ceremonies for the new Monongahela Valley Catholic high school in Carroll Twp. will take place someume next week, it was announced yesterday.

The school will be ready for occupancy by September, 1958, barring unforeseen difficulties, according to Catholic school officials.

General contractor for the project will be the Navarro Corporation of Pittsburgh. The building will cost in excess of a million dollars.

The current fund-raising drive in the 14 parishes which will be served by the new school continues in high gear.

With still two weeks remaining a grand total of $824,560 has already been raised. That's far over the campaign goal of $700,000.

Two of Three Still Critical

The condition of two of three persons hurt in two separate motor accidents earlier this week, still remained critical today, according to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital attendants.

Audrey Jean Lynn, 21, who was injured when flung on a motorcycle driven by her husband, Dale, 22, of R. D. 2, Belle Vernon, Tuesday night, still is in critical condition with a skull fracture. Her husband has been taken off the critical list.

William Hall, 36, of R. D., Belle Vernon, remains in critical condition. He was injured Wednesday night on the Turnpike spur in North Belle Vernon.

Jordan's New Army Chief Quits; Situation 'Tense'

AMMAN, Jordan (UP) — Maj. Gen. Ali Hayyari resigned as chief of staff of King Hussein's Jordanian army today after only two days in the post. He immediately went to Damascus, Syria.

Hayyari's successor was not immediately announced. He had been named chief of staff only Thursday to replace Maj. Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar who had fled to Syria following failure of an attempted leftist coup.

(A Damascus dispatch said Hayyari arrived in the Syrian capital this morning and was reported seeking asylum in that country. The Syrian cabinet went into an urgent session immediately after his arrival).

Hayyari was known to have accepted the chief of staff post reluctantly. He apologized twice to King Hussein before he was finally prevailed upon to accept the job, sources said.

Sources here said Hayyari as a career soldier was reluctant to "mix in politics" and this would have been difficult to avoid in Jordan, where the army is a key factor in the fluid situation.

The likeliest candidate to replace him is Maj. Gen. Hafez Majjali, currently assistant chief of staff. Majali was promoted to major general this week when he and Hayyari were named to the army's top two posts.

Both Hayyari and Majjali were members of the Bedouin group of the Jordanian Arab army that backed the 22-year-old monarch in the crisis that followed Hussein's ouster of pro-Soviet Premier Suleiman Nabulsi. Nabulsi has become foreign minister in the new Khalidi cabinet.

New unrest was reported, meanwhile, in the Palestinian section of Jordan west of the Jordan River, where anti-Western and pro-Nabulsi sentiment is strong.

In Ramallah and the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem police Friday broke up groups of demonstrating students demanding that Premier Khalidi oust U.S. Ambassador James Mallory from the country. (Reports in Damascus said the situation in Palestinian Jordan is "tense.")

Ex-Premier Nabulsi called an urgent meeting of the former Nationalist Socialist Party ministers of his ousted leftist regime this afternoon at the Amman club.

Earlier Nabulsi had conferred with Premier Khalidi in Nabulsi's office.

Church School Group Hears Reports on May Activities

The Church School Association of Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church met in the Parish House Tuesday evening following vesper services.

The leader for this meeting was Mrs. Sophia Rieser, with the topic, "Are You Educating for Family Living"?

Gustave Ulander opened the business session with a prayer. Following the minutes of the last meeting and the treasurer's report, several reports were made by committee chairmen and superintendents. Among these was a report on the Vacation Bible School to be held from June 10 to June 21, and a report on the campers who will go to Lutherlyn this summer.

Pastor Schneidmiller announced that a guest speaker, a student from Thiel College, will bring the message to the congregation at the morning service on April 28.

The Association also voted to extend an invitation to act as host to the Sunday School Conference Convention on Saturday, June 8.

Twenty-three members attended this meeting. The next regularly scheduled meeting will be held on May 21 with Mrs. Mary Uchrinscko as the leader. Her subject will be "How To Tell a Story."

Let them rest amid the quiet beauty of your Traditional Monument Cemetery

How fitting that those who so deeply believe in the meaning of Easter shall rest in this inspiring sanctuary whose monuments symbolize the love that is eternal and the faith born of the Easter miracle. If your love and your faith are strong, you will want to have your own family plot in your traditional monument cemetery. For only here are you permitted to proclaim that love and faith in visible and lasting form . . . with a monument of marble or granite erected on your family plot. Why not choose your plot and monument now before need—while all the members of your family can make their wishes known.

Easter Window Art Contest Winners Listed

Judges have selected the outstanding window paintings in the Easter Window Art Contest sponsored by the Belle Vernon American Legion Post 659 over the past two weeks.

The window of the Sciaio Barber Shop on Broad avenue, which was painted by Alex Krul of 108 Lynnwood avenue, a Rostraver High School student and the window of the Standard Pharmacy, which was painted by Connie Moskala and Grace Hough were judged tied for first place. The two girls are Fayette City residents and are Bellmar High School students.

The winning paintings will be photographed and entered in the 31st District Legion Contest for district competition. The winners will receive awards from Belle Vernon Post 659.

The Bellmar students painted under the supervision of Miss Pearl Kish art supervisor and the Rostraver students painted independently.

Last year the painting entered by John Hewitt, of Bellmar, was awarded second prize in District competition.

Secretaries to Attend Parley

Jean Tintori, of Hill St. and Mrs. Patty Bell, of Lynnwood, will be among those enrolled in Pennsylvania State University's annual Educational Secretaries Workshop to be held April 25-27.

Miss Tintori is secretary to Robert VanBremen, Bellmar-Belle Vernon Schools supervising principal, and Mrs. Bell is secretary to Bellmar High School Principal Raymond Barker.

The purpose of the workshop is to bring together educational secretaries interested in the growth of their profession.

Enrolled for the workshop are secretaries employed in public and private schools, colleges and universities of the Department of Public Instruction.

Washington Twp. Lions Club Holds Officer Nomination

A business session featured the Wednesday evening meeting of the Washington Township Lions Club held in the social rooms of the Marion Presbyterian Church following the serving of dinner and the final nomination of officers was conducted.

Legislature to Return To Desks on Tuesday

GOP Hoping to Clear Work by The End of May

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General Assembly returns next Tuesday to open a concentrated Republican drive to clear the lawmakers' desks by May 31 and receive another gubernatorial appeal to "get to work" on administration-sponsored legislation.

The Assembly, in Easter recess since April 10, plans to complete departmental budget hearings this month and then roll the appropriation bills through during May. Passage of the appropriation legislation normally signals the sessions's end.

The governor postponed his meeting with legislative leaders scheduled for April 24 until the following week, at the request of Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom. He will confer with Republican leaders in the meantime to set a new date for the conference which he hopes will result in some of his 200 proposals emerging from committees.

Leader rejected speculation that he would call a special legislative session next spring in the event the Assembly fails to act on his program, terming it "completely ridiculous." The governor apparently preferred to plot a wait-and-see course before delivering an ultimatum to the GOP controlled Legislature.

Republican leaders came up with a possible checkmate of their own to kill any special session action. Senate Republican Majority Whip Albert R. Pechan (Armstrong) said the Legislature should not adjourn but stand-by on a recess basis.

Bloom said "no policy" had been set on Pechan's proposal but conceded there was a difference of opinion among GOP leaders on final adjournment.

A stand-by recess would vest recall powers in the House speaker and Senate president pro tempore, both Republicans. A flat adjournment would allow Leader to reconvene the Assembly.

Senate GOP leaders said they would exempt coal specifically from the 3 per cent sales tax next week to make it quite clear that the fuel is not to be taxed.

Tax Experts Offer To Assist Senator

WASHINGTON (UP) — Government tax experts led by Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey offered Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del.) lots of advice today on what he could do with his left-over $1,508.26 in expense money.

Williams said all he wanted to do was give the money back to the Treasury as a refund. But he said the Treasury wouldn't take it.

Humphrey said that wasn't so. He said he would be "glad to receive it personally."

Williams complained to the Senate Thursday that under a Treasury Department ruling he must spend all of his annual $1,800 stationery allowance or report the unpaid balance as income and pay taxes on it.

To the suggestion that he could draw the funds and give them back to the Treasury as a gift, Williams said the money left over from the stationery allowance "does not belong to me—it belongs to the American taxpayers." Moreover, he said, he then would have to pay a gift tax.

But tax officials said they view the expense allowance as part of the regular compensation of members of the Senate and House.

If Williams becomes persuaded that the money does belong to him after all, and wants to write a check to Humphrey, tax experts were ready with two possible money-saving tips:

—Write the check for the full amount and list it as a charitable contribution.

—Write a check to the Treasury secretary as a regular gift saving whatever is needed to pay the taxes to the Treasury on it.

Tax experts weren't quite so quick with an explanation on how over the years the senator has been able to turn his stationery allowance in without any question of taxability coming up.

One expert commented that there is sometimes a difference between the law and the way it works.

Baptist Church Choir to Sing Cantata Tomorrow

The choir of the First Baptist Church, Schoonmaker Ave., will present a cantata, "Memories of Easter Morn," tomorrow evening at 7:45

The worship service will open with the hymn, "One Day." Prayer will follow the reading of the scripture lesson which will be taken from Romans 6:1-11.

Selections in the cantata are a tenor solo by William Wilson, "The Stone That Builders Rejected" "All Hail," by the choir; solo, by Judith Smith, "Hosanna" "Jerusalem," by the choir; solo by Mrs. Charles Harvey, "One Yonder Cross;" "Christ is King," and "Christ Arose," by the choir, solo by Mrs. Harvey, "Death Is Swallowed Up;" solo by John Weber, Jr., "We Shall See Jesus," and "Rejoice and Be Glad," by the choir.

The pastor, the Rev. Lloyd S. Erb will pronounce the benediction.

Higher Interest Rates Approved

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UP)—President Eisenhower today signed legislation permitting the Treasury to raise the interest rates on government savings bonds to 3¼ per cent.

The measure is designed to encourage heavier investment in lower denomination federal securities.

Combined Good Friday Service At Webster Methodist Church

The combined Good Friday service was held yesterday in Webster Methodist Church from noon to 3 p. m. with the Rev. John Shell, pastor, presiding.

The prelude was by Winona Grilli, followed by the Methodist Choir singing "On Calvary". The worship covered seven different periods.

First speaker was Clarence Bush, who spoke on "Forgiveness". The Pricedale Union choir sang "Outside the Holy City".

Second speaker was the Rev. Raymond Thorpe, whose topic was "Pardon". The Rev. L. C. Robie, evangelist, spoke and also played the trumpet.

The third statement was "Love" by the Rev. George Guest. Prayer was by Mrs. Hamilton.

The Rev. John W. Shell conducted the fourth period, "Loneliness". The Methodist choir sang "To Do the Fahter's Will".

The fifth statement, "Human Need", was by Mr. Shell in the absence of the Rev. W. S. Van Ryn, who is ill. A prayer was offered for Mr. Van Ryn and his wife, who also is ill.

The sixth speaker was the Rev. Fred Burchell, whose topic was "Triumph". A trio made up of Mrs. Maude Roberts and Mr. and Mrs. George Green sang "At the Cross".

Seventh speaker was the Rev. J. Nelson Jackaway, whose theme was "Reunion".

Group singing was conducted throughout the services. Winona Grilli and Odessa Smith were accompanists.

Sunrise Service At Fells Church

The 23rd annual Easter Sunrise Service will be held at the old Fells Methodist Church in Fellsburg under the auspices of the Webster Methodist, Fells Methodist and the Webster Presbyterian churches.

These services have become a tradition.

A committee from each church makes the plans and present a very interesting program. The choirs of the Fells and Webster Presbyterian churches will present special Easter music. The Rev. John W. SHhell, pastor of Webster Methodist Church, will be the speaker. These services are open to the public.

Services will start promptly at 6:00 a. m.

Pricedale Union Church Group Holds Meeting

The Ladies Adult Class of Pricedale Union Church Sunday School met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Louise Bridge, of Park Manor. Eva Williamson was devotional leader.

Following group singing of hymns, prayers were offered by Mrs. White, Mrs. Harrison, Mrs. Huscroft, Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Echart. Mrs. Williamson gave a lesson from scripture and also read "The Origin and Message of the Easter Lily", along with a poem entitled "April".

Mrs. White was in charge of the business session and reports were made by Mrs. Williamson, secretary, and Mrs. Mary Echart, treasurer. Lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Annie Bush. Others present were Irene Usher, Kathyrn Burkett, Janet Rodebaugh, Martha Rodebaugh, Lydia Popp, Agnes Patterson and Mary Horne. Hostesses for the next meeting will be Janet Rodebaugh and Irene Usher.

Brotherhood of Olive Branch Church Meets

The Brotherhood of Olive Branch Baptist Church met recently with John Smith as leader. Prayer was by William Smith. A film, "Journey Into Faith", was shown.

Business was in charge of Walter Colvin, Sr., president. The class decided to purchase flowers for Mother's Day and the oldest and youngest mothers, mothers with the youngest baby, mothers with most children present will receive flowers.

Lunch was served by Edward Leeper. Others present were Ewing Trickett, Albert Wunderlich, Robert Cook, Sr., Robert Cook Jr., Walter Colvin, Sr., Bill Crawford, Bill Heath, Gail Finley, John Paul and Ralph Leeper, the Rev. J. Nelson Jackaway, Don Smith and M. Myer, a guest.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Van Ryn, of Fells Church, are both confined to their home because of illness.

The School Directors

THE PEOPLE of Monessen have been having another lesson in recent days of the importance of having well qualified persons serving on the school board.

It has been made quite apparent that most of the school directors have lacked a thorough understanding of the finances of the school district and have been dependent to a large extent on the advice and recommendations of others. So when they get conflicting advice, they seem hard put to know what to do.

It is difficult to criticize officials whose intentions are good and who seem to be trying to carry out their duties conscientiously.

But it is true, nevertheless, that the best intentions in the world cannot be a substitute in affairs of this magnitude for competence and judgment based on training and experience. And these are what have been lacking on the school board.

The Independent has said more than once that Monessen's political system has been seriously underestimating the importance of the position of school director. It is a job worthy of the best talents we can find among our citizens. Yet we tend to give it to young men whose interests run to second-guessing the football coach rather than to public finance.

This needs to be said, too: the school board cannot transfer its responsibilities to the shoulders of the superintendent. He should be a competent educator, but it is too much to expect that he should be an infallible mastermind. He is intended to be the agent and adviser of the school directors, not their nursemaid.

How do we get people of demonstrated capacity on the school board? That's a question for our political leadership to answer. But we know this, that if we do not somehow manage to put our school system in such hands, we have not seen the last of our troubles.

Time to Act

THE EXPERIENCE of the pre-Easter shopping period should have convinced everyone concerned with parking and traffic problems in downtown Monessen that the time has come to eliminate curb parking on at least one side of Donner Ave.

We see no good reason why this should be delayed any longer. It has been recommended by several authorities from whom the city has sought advice. And at most times there is ample vacant space in the new facilities of the Parking Authority.

Streets exist primarily for moving traffic, not to provide parking space. And since it is impossible for traffic to move conveniently on Donner Ave., even at "off" hours, parking should give way to traffic.

City officials may be reluctant to make the change because of possible opposition. But in making any such decision, the best test is always, "What will do the greatest good for the greatest number?"

The answer in this instance is clear. We cannot allow Donner Ave. to continue to be a frustrating traffic bottleneck.

The County Court

AN UNUSUAL situation has arisen in Westmoreland County which will allow the voters this year to choose three out of the four judges of the county's court of common pleas.

The politicians, of course, can be expected to make the most of this opportunity. They are already at work with their deals and trades and promises, the objective of which is to have the court which will do their bidding when retired.

But the interest of the people is different. What is important to them is that justice shall be dispensed by men of professional attainment, unquestioned integrity and personal and political independence.

We hope during the next few months, beginning with the primary election on May 21, the people, regardless of party, will take every opportunity to install a court composed of judges who meet that description. That may be possible in spite of the politicians.

Those downtown Monessen stores which, acting on the Chamber of Commerce, are not supporting the Park 'N' Shop program, are being unbelievably short-sighted. In what other town of the Valley have the resources of the taxpayers been used so extensively to improve the business district? Merchants in their own self-interest should be vigorously supporting Park 'N' Shop.

Summerfield Is Doing Good Job

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Summerfield called me a liar the other day when I reported that he had pulled wires to shut down the congressional probe of Jimmy Hoffa and Teamster racketeering in the Detroit area.

Mr. Pearson

Now that he's being kicked around by Congress and the public generally, it might be a good time to come back at him.

Forgetting Mr. Summerfield's political errors, however, and sticking to his record as Postmaster General it's hard to come back at him. For, despite his hassle with Congress, the facts as I review them are that Summerfield has done a pretty good job. I have watched quite a few postmasters and I don't know anyone who has done better.

Let's look at the record.

Though the USA has expanded, Summerfield has run his huge operation with fewer employes. There were 523,757 in 1952 when he took over. There were 508,587 in 1956.

In that same period, mail had jumped from 49.9 billion pieces in 1952 to 56.4 billion pieces in 1956. There were 300,000 new home owners in 1956 and 250,000 new business concerns. Yet Summerfield ran the post office with less personnel.

The record also shows that Summerfield has been careful with the taxpayers' money. He has gone back to Congress only once before for more money. This was in fiscal year 1956 when he needed and got an extra $166 million. In 1954 on the other hand, he turned back $105 million to the Treasury, and in 1955 he turned back almost $50 million.

His trouble this year is that he made a mistake in estimating the increased volume of mail. He figured it would be 2.8 per cent more than the last fiscal year, when actually it turned out to be 4 per cent doesn't seem like much, but when more. This error of 1.2 per cent you're operating 38,000 post offices it runs into both money and mail — 59 billion pieces this year.

Magazine Lobby

The curly-haired Postmaster General, who once was the world's biggest Chevrolet dealer, has made a lot of people sore at him by revamping outmoded postal equipment and operations.

He also hasn't hesitated to tackle the big magazine mailers, whose second-class privileges run him into the red deeper than any other item.

It happens that these big magazine owners are the best supporters the Republican party has. Every major magazine in the USA was for Ike in 1952 and 1956, and some of the publishers were also heavy campaign contributors.

Henry Luce and his beautiful wife contributed $30,875 to Ike last November, while their publication, Life Magazine, cost the Post Office Department and the taxpayer $9,310,000 — the difference between the actual revenue received by the post office from Life Magazine and what it cost the post office to deliver it. Time and Fortune, also Luce publications, caused the post office another sizable loss.

Roland Harriman and Vincent Astor, chief owners of Newsweek, contributed $34,350 and $7,500 respectively to Ike last year. Newsweek, in turn, cost the post office a substantial loss in second-class-mailing expense so that the taxpayer indirectly helped subsidize the magazine even though he may have voted for Stevenson.

John and Mike Cowles, publishers of Look Magazine, are also strong Ike supporters. According to the latest figures available, their magazine costs the post office and the taxpayers $3,482,000 annually to deliver.

McCall Corporation now has a new president, none other than ex-Gov. Arthur Langlie of Washington. He too was a strong Ike supporter. And his McCall's magazine costs the post office a formidable annual loss of $1,507,000.

Howard Pyle, secretary to and for Secretary Benson, though he's a political appointee, resigned to campaign for the GOP — some of the heavy contributions that brought some convictions of Michigan auto dealers — in the Detroit area, the big magazine owner.

Some people think he hasn't backed them strongly enough. But right now Reader's Digest is circulating among congressmen advance copies of its May issue containing Summerfield's quotation, DeWitt Wallace, publisher of Reader's Digest, who is fighting Secretary Benson's strong Republican stand, asks Mr. Wallace, contributed $7,250 to the party coffers. His magazine cost the post office for the same period $4,172,000 in second-class handling losses.

The irrefutable fact is that the 10 top magazines of the nation account for three-fourths of the second-class mail.

In this situation the Postmaster General has made some bad political decisions in his day, but running the post office is not one of them.

New Phase to Cold Peace?

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

U. S. officials whose job it is to look more than six months ahead are becoming convinced that U. S. — Soviet relations are entering a new and significant phase.

Mr. Drummond

This doesn't mean that the end of the cold war is in sight. It doesn mean that events may now be in the making that will have as their end result some productive negotiations with Moscow which could reduce East-West tensions.

First, the facts. For the past two weeks the Soviet Union has almost literally hail-stormed Western European nations with dire warnings if any one of them adds missiles or other nuclear weapons to its defenses.

Shower of Votes

The Kremlin has thundered at Denmark and Norway that they must not allow themselves to have guided missiles, that it would be "suicidal." A day or two elapses — and then the same warning to Sweden, to Belgium, to West Germany. Next Greece and Turkey are told what "frightful retaliation" could take place if they should do the same. The Macmillan government is blasted for its new defense plan to shield the British Isles with missiles promised by the United States.

These warnings come in the solemn form of diplomatic notes — a vertible shower of them — and are then played back in the Soviet press and the Moscow multi-language radio so that they can be heard round the world.

Simultaneously with these hard Soviet admonitions there also come softer Soviet words. A newly jovial Khrushchev says the Kremlin wants a policy of "live-and-let-live" and a day later Premier Bulganin says me-too and suggests that the time is ripe for a lessening of tension.

What's It Mean

What does it mean? Obviously we can't know for sure, at this stage, what, if anything, it portends that is new. But it could mean a great deal and it is useful to look at its potential meaning in order not to be caught unprepared. Here is the judgment which some officials, high in the government, are advancing:

1. The Kremlin sees it as imminent when both the Soviet Union and the United States will possess the "ultimate weapon" — intermediate range and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

2. The Soviet leaders are nervous, worried, genuinely alarmed by the prospect that Britain and other NATO nations (Norway has rejected the Soviet protest) will possess missiles capable of striking vulnerable Russian targets. They are well aware that the Soviet Union could be more open to missile attack than the United States because NATO bases are nearer.

3. Consequently Moscow is using two different tactics to the same end. It is trying to keep Western missiles as far from the Soviet frontiers as possible by simultaneously threatening horrible consequences if NATO countries embrace them and using sweet talk to suggest how nice things could be if they spurn them.

May Want Less Tension

All this leaves some Western diplomats with the conclusion that the Soviet leadership, hoping to prevent being ringed by missile bases, is nearing the time when it will want to negotiate away some — perhaps several — of the tensions which feed the cold war.

Nobody holds this conclusion without reservation, but it is a conclusion which has some real support.

Perhaps the first sign of whether the Kremlin really wants to ease the cold war — and its burdens — will be at the U. S. disarmament negotiations now in progress in London. The negotiations have been going forward rather better than in the past: the Soviet delegate has appeared to be negotiating seriously. The end result is not yet visible but a modest beginning at controlled reduction of armed strength may be the opening step into a new phase of the cold peace.

The West can't afford to let hard warnings or soft words keep it from deploying the most modern weapons where they will do the West the most good, but whenever the Kremlin wants to begin serious negotiations we must be ready. Our objective must be the withdrawal of Soviet troops to Soviet territory — and that would be worth a price.

Public Decisions Need Public Discussion

By HARRY R. PORE, Jr.

Democratic government can only work at its best when full use is made of all its processes. And among the most vital of these, in my judgment, is public discussion and debate of public questions.

Too many of our governing bodies, particularly those at the local level, seem often to be trying to avoid open discussion of their problems. Sometimes they seem actually to be afraid to be seen disagreeing in public. So they make liberal use of that overworked device, the caucus, from which the public and the press are excluded.

The special meeting of the Monessen School Board last Tuesday evening is a case in point. This meeting was called for the purpose of transacting some unusually important business in connection with school finances. And under Pennsylvania law, business can only be transacted by a school board in public sessions.

But when the press and other interested citizens arrived at the meeting place at the appointed time, the doors were closed. And it was made known that the directors had actually been meeting in private for nearly two hours with various financial and legal advisers.

Visitors could tell from the rise and fall of voices inside the room that an earnest discussion, probably some argument, was taking place. A discussion, apparently, which the school directors thought it best not to allow the public to hear.

Doors Opened

Finally, a half-hour late, the doors were opened and the reporters and visitors were admitted. Whereupon the board went through the motions of transacting its business in accordance with the law.

To his credit, the president of the board asked the superintendent to lay out the financial data on which the directors were basing their decisions. And he also provided opportunity for comment and questions from the spectators.

But it was hardly to be expected that the visitors could grasp in a few moments the complexities of a problem which the directors had just been discussing in private for two hours with expert advisers. And this, I understand, was only the latest in a series of similar conferences.

Moreover, it was plain from the moment the public was admitted to the room that a decision had already been reached. The real discussion was over, the argument resolved — and the public had heard none of it.

Now it seems to me that there is something missing from this picture — something quite important and fundamental. And I think when we deliberately exclude the public from the processes by which public decisions are reached, we are tying one of Democracy's hands behind its back.

Others Do It, too

Our school board, of course, is not alone in this too-liberal use of the private caucus to avoid public discussion. The city council, too, reaches most of its important decisions behind closed doors and merely ratifies them in public to satisfy the legal requirements. And some other public bodies in this area do the same to greater or less degree.

I am at a loss to account for this apparent fear of public disagreement. At the school board meeting the other evening I couldn't decide whether the directors were afraid of themselves, afraid of each other or afraid of the public. Yet they seemed to be conscientiously trying to do what they thought was the right thing.

Part of the trouble, I suspect, would have to be attributed to the fact that we have a one-party system in Monessen. Not that we necessarily should have partisan contention over school problems. But there is a tendency where only one effective party exists and where that party is dominated by a political machine whose primary ambition is to perpetuate itself — the tendency is to strive for surface harmony, no matter how artificial it may be. It just gets to be a habit to "stay in line".

Differences Good

But honest differences of opinion expressed by men of conviction and dedication to the public good are, in a real sense, one of the noblest features of the democratic system. Our Constitution, to cite an example, was hammered out in an atmosphere of public controversy which sometimes even became bitter and personal. And I think most scholars would agree that nothing so fine could have been produced in a star chamber behind closed doors.

There are times, of course, when public officials must counsel together in confidence. The delegates to the Constitutional Convention did plenty of that, too.

But we go much too far when we substitute such consultation for public discussion. For without public discussion, we limit the understanding of the people and shut them out of participation in decisions which can affect them seriously. And let's face it: when that happens, we haven't got real democracy.

Woodcock a 'Feathered Poet in a Frenzy'

By JOHN H. DAY

Passing cars on the roadway below, passing planes in the skyways above, an indignant, loud-mouthed robin and a gossipy mallard in the pond edgings all did their best to drown it out, but the other evening I had the rare and delightful thrill of a front seat at woodcock vespers while one of these lovesick fellows sang his mad, ecstatic music and danced his aerial rock 'n roll in the twilight sky. The evening hymn of this big-eyed bog bird to the demure object of his affection is one of the most exciting performances in the spring repertoire of the timberands.

A good friend told me that if I went to a certain spot on a certain hillside and waited patiently through the evening gloaming I might be lucky enough to hear and see the bird perform. And so one recent warmish evening with a sure feel of spring in the air, I parked near the rendezvous about a half - hour before darkness. Climbing over a high wire fence, I walked straight up the hill perhaps 75 yards, halting in a thick growth of thorn bushes.

Taking a comfortable stance I stood motionless, watching some swimming ducks etch great shimmering wedges on the wide reservoir below the road, and listening to a caroling robin who had somewhere picked up a piece of the music of the wood thrush. Occasionally a car would racket by, drowning out all other sounds. Something disturbed the robin and he flew through the bushes close to me.

Abusive Robin

Great was his indignation when he spied me there in the area he has staked out as his concert arena. He bustled about in high dudgeon, scolding and yelling at the top of his voice. I made nary a move. He finally settled down in a tree a few rods distant and kept up his wrathful abuse until it was almost dark. Now and then a plane droned over to add to the general din.

I wasn't sure just what sort of sound I was listening for, but I kept one ear cocked for whatever might turn up, meanwhile berating the noisy cars that kept passing me and the noisier mallard that chose that moment to raise a continuing hullabaloo about something that displeased him in the marshy cove. Now it was almost dark and the robin finally shut up for the night.

Suddenly I was conscious of a new sound. It was a low nasal "beezp" quite like the call the nighthawk makes when circling above the city streets. Again I heard this odd note from somewhere close by, and again and again. Then with a rush of whistling wings a bird came out of the gloom right over my head, climbing higher and higher in erratic circles until he disappeared from sight. I could still hear the peculiar chippering of those sturdy wings after the woodcock was lost in the grayness.

I would guess that he did not halt his climb until he was three or four hundred feet above the ground. Here he burst into an ecstatic warbling with a peculiar smacking musical quality that was at once breathless, broken, eager, passionate. Then, exhausted, the bird dropped down into the thicket near by. Soon again I heard that odd "beezp, beezp" repeated until he could stand it no longer and must hurl himself high into the air once more, proclaiming in that mad flight song his devotion to the little lady in brown down there in the evening coverts.

Performance Over

Five times I was lucky enough to see the big-billed fellow zoom up through the gloaming, after introducing each recital with that strange, almost ridiculous overture. Once I counted 32 "beezps" before he came roaring up above the thorn bushes. Finally, just as full darkness settled on the hills, he came flying through the bushes and almost crashed into me. I knew then the evening's performance was over and unlimbered my flashlight to guide my way out of the tangles.

The woodcock is perhaps the most unobtrusive feathered dweller in our summer countryside. His comings and goings are in the night, and his stations are in the low swampy grounds in the forest among the skunk cabbage and the dainty fern. But when he sings to his mate in the April twilight he is a feathered poet in a frenzy. If a man could be as fully enraptured as the woodcock seems to be, he would know the joys of the blest.

Mrs. Donald C. Duvall is acting as general chairman and she has been assisted by a large committee in arranging for the affair. The February, March, April and May ways committee of the club is sponsoring the party.

The general committee is comprised of Mrs. Lily Anderson, Mrs. George Breniman, Mrs. Joseph Campus, Mrs. Thomas Copeland, Mrs. Charles Darby, Mrs. Charles Dow, Mrs. L. E. Farquhar, Mrs. R. G. Fisher, Mrs. Joseph Hagerstrand, Mrs. James Hutchison, Mrs. R. Arlington Johnston, Miss Ina Kline, Mrs. T. E. Lewis, Mrs. Robert McKelvie, Sr., Mrs. Paul Yeaton, Mrs. Charles Williams, Jr., Mrs. R. E. Weddell, Mrs. Paul Trout, Mrs. R. G Stephens, Mrs. Edward Smith, Mrs. Howard Sehman, Mrs. Jay Schumm, Mrs. Denver Rhome, Miss Bessie Preston, Mrs. William Parkinson, Mrs. Ralph E. Palmer, Mrs. W. P. Miller and Mrs. Harold Meybin.

Tickets may be obtained from the club members or at the door the day of the party. A cookie sale is also planned as a highlight of the afternoon.

The next regular meeting will be held on May 8 in the gymnasium of the First Methodist Church. The senior girls of Monessen High School will be the guests of honor.

Music will be arranged by Mrs. Rip Menefee and the guest speaker will be A. L. Laufe, of the University of Pittsburgh.

The social committee headed by Mrs. William Houy will be in charge of the serving of tea and hostesses will be Mrs. G. E. Haury, Mrs. Leroy Cass, Mrs. Fred Campana, Mrs. Richard Cook, Mrs. Glen Kerns, Mrs. T. E. Lewis, Miss Della Swan, Mrs. T. R. VanMarter and Mrs. Paul Yeaton.

The annual Rose luncheon scheduled for June 5 will conclude the club's activities for the year. Officers will be installed at that time.

Lucille Kelly, Bride-elect of W. B. Van Scoy

At a family gathering today, the announcement of the engagement of Lucille Kelly to W. B. Van Scoy was made.

Miss Kelly, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Kelly, is a teacher of home economics in the Monessen Junior-Senior High School.

Mr. Van Scoy, a resident of Salem, West Virginia, is principal of the Center Point, West Va. School.

The couple plan to be married this summer.

Graduates of West Penn to Have Reunion

More than 2,500 graduates of the West Penn Hospital School of Nursing, Pittsburgh, are being invited to a reunion to be held on Saturday, May 11, at the Penn Sheraton Hotel, Pittsburgh.

The West Penn School of Nursing opened in 1892 with a two year nursing course and a class of 11 constituted the first graduating class. Two members of that class, Emma Church, of Waynesburg and Ida Gaut, of Dayton, who graduated with the class of 1895, are the oldest living graduates known to the school.

The course has now been lengthened to three years and the hospital is now located at Friendship Ave. The School of Nursing occupies its own building.

All West Penn graduates are invited to attend the affair, which includes a tour of the hospital after a reunion at the Penn Sheraton from the noon hour until 2:30, when luncheon will be served. Graduates who have not been contacted by the school may register by sending the $6 fee to the Five Year Reunion Committee at the West Penn Hospital.

Miss Barbara Warren is the general chairman and Mrs Mary Rush is president of the West Penn Alumnae Association.

Nancy Summers, George Sever Wed in Virginia

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Summers, of Smithton, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Nancy, to George Sever. He is the son of Mrs. Mildred Sever, of West Newton.

Their wedding was an event of Thursday, April 4, and took place in Winchester, Va.

The new Mrs. Summers was graduated from South Huntingdon Township High School and is presently employed by the Westinghouse Corporation at Large as a secretary. Mr. Sever is serving with the U. S. Army. He was graduated from South Huntingdon High School, and is presently stationed at the U. S. Army Pictorial Center, New York City.

Mr. Summers has been home on leave, but will return to his base this week.

LOCALS

Mrs. Charles Teslovich, of Denver, Col., is spending the Easter holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Makey, of 909 Marguerite Ave., and her sister, Mrs. Albert J. Sendek. Her husband was unable to accompany her due to business commitments.

Eugene Laneve, who has been serving with the U. S. Army, has been discharged and returned to his home. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Laneve, of Sixth St., and served for sometime overseas. At the time of his discharge he was stationed at Arlington, Va.

"Doctrine of Atonement" will be the title sermon to be delivered at the 11 a. m. service at the First Church of Christ Scientist tomorrow morning. There will also be readings from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures.

Mrs. Ronald Campana, of Schoonmaker Ave. and First St., is a patient in St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburgh, suffering a severe attack of bronchitas. Mrs. Campana is a teacher in the Benjamin Franklin School.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Thomas McKee American Legion Post 28 will sponsor a card party on Monday evening at 8 30 in the Post Home on Donner Ave., and it is open to the public.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith, and baby daughter, of Kitanning, are spending the week end with their parents, Mrs. Thea Dominico and Mrs. S. Smith, both of Monessen.

Jim Holiday, a student at Westminster College, is spending the week end with his parents, Mr and Mrs. Paul Mancinelli, of Knox Ave.

Mary Lou Rowe, a student at Pennsylvania State University, is spending the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rowe, of Shawnee Ave.

Toni Kay Owsiany, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Owsiany, of Linden Ave, is confined to her home by illness.

Mrs. Edith Davies has returned to her home in Monessen after being a patient in the Monongahela Memorial Hospital.

Alfred Klimcke, a student at Pennsylvania State University, is home for the Easter weekend.

Mrs. A. C. Laneve, of Sixth St. is recovering at her home following an illness of several days.

Easter Dance at Croatian Hall

The Ladies Auxiliary to the American Croatian Club will end the Lenten season with an Easter Sunday night dance to be held at the hall with the Greyko Orchestra providing the music for dancing.

Mrs. Ann Cavrak is general chairman of the event and a large committee is assisting her.

The dance is open to the public and tickets may be procured at the door.

SOFT CRISS-CROSS DRAPING — gracefully molds the waist in this new design for Spring and early Summer. The narrow cover-up dress is fashioned of gray wool.

Ladies Auxiliary Will Convene

The Charleroi-Monessen Hospital Ladies Auxiliary will meet on Monday afternoon in the conference room at the hospital with the president, Mrs. T. C. Montgomery, in charge.

Plans will be completed for the annual Spring Ball to be held at the Charleroi Elks Club with Tommy Carlyn's orchestra providing the music for dancing. Plans will also be made for the annual Hospital Luncheon.

Jury Dinner Will Open Valley Art Club Exhibit In Donora on Thursday

The deadline for reservations for the annual Jury Dinner, which will precede the public showing of the Spring Art Exhibit to be held by the Monongahela Valley Art Club is today and they are to be made with Mrs. Charles Harvey, of Luce Ave., Monessen.

The dinner has been scheduled for Thursday evening, April 25, in the social rooms of the First Methodist Church of Donora, where the exhibit is slated to take place.

Guest Speaker

The speaker at the dinner will be Walter Reed Hovey, head of the art department at the University of Pittsburgh, who will also act as senior judge of the showing

The dinner is open to all members of the valley group and their friends and to all exhibitors in the show.

The show will be held April 25, 26 and 27, and since it is the only one of its kind in the valley it is expected to attract a large crowd of viewers.

Artists are asked to have their work in to the church on Tuesday evening between 7 and 9 p. m. Wednesday will be devoted to the hanging and arranging of the paintings to the best advantage for the judging. The judging will be done before the Jury Dinner so that announcement of the prize winners can be made at that time. After dinner the guests will have the opportunity of touring the show and discussing the art work with the club members and judges informally before it is open to the public.

Open to Public

On Friday and Saturday valley residents will be given the opportunity to see the exhibit without cost. It will be open from 1 p. m. until 10, p. m. both days.

Only original paintings from life or imagination or from a snapshot taken by the artist will be accepted for display and the artists planning to show their work registered before last Tuesday night at midnight. The paintings are framed and are at least 16 to 20 inches in size.

Awards will be made for the best oil, second best oil, industrial or historical portrait, still life or a floral.

The Rev. Lew Johnston, of Donora, will also be a judge.

At the April business session new officers will be elected to head the club for the next year.

Patricia Marie Laneve Feted On Birthday

Patricia Marie Laneve, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Louis Laneve, of Knox Ave., observed her first birthday anniversary on Thursday and marking the occasion was a party held at her home.

Her two sisters, Alice Elaine and Margie along with other little friends and relatives were entertained with games and then luncheon was served by Mrs. Laneve.

The birthday cake presented to the guest of honor was in the form of an Easter bunny and was baked by her aunt, Mrs. Martha Lou Hasco.

Patricia was presented with many gifts.

BIRTHS

MHS Never Made Cage Request

There's reason to believe that Monessen High never went through with its plan to seek admission into basketball Section 6 along with McKeesport, Duquesne, Homestead and that crowd. The School Board had okayed the request, but Greyhound biggies reportedly reconsidered when it became apparent that Charleroi wanted no part of the plan. A switch to Section 6 would have interrupted the long-standing cage rivalry with Charleroi. It was hoped originally that the Cougars would also welcome the move to Section 6, thus preserving the Charleroi-Monessen series. However Cougar authorities made it clear they were not interested in the scheme and that Monessen would have to go it alone.

By the way, the WPIAL Basketball Committee has already arranged sections for next season. As usual, the Committee is keeping its work a dark secret. The information will be released about May 1. The betting is that the valley section will be about the same. Ordinarily, the committee doesn't switch teams unless formal requests are received. Presumably no valley schools made such requests . . . Actually Section 5 should be much more balanced in the future. Next year's race shapes up as a wide open affair, with defending champion Charleroi rating only a slight edge.

SI Article Raps Paul Waner

An article in the recent issue of Sports Illustrated is bound to stir excitement in the Pittsburgh area. The author, James Murray, writes: "Keep players like Ty Cobb and Ted Williams out of the Baseball Hall of Fame." Murray contends they can't be considered team players. He also places the Pirates Paul Waner in that category. That description of Big Poison is bound to anger Pirate fans. Waner was undoubtedly one of the Bucs all-time greats. And he was a team player all the way . . . Speaking of Waner, he was Stan Musial's boyhood idol . . . Bill Whiteko, former Brownsville High infielder, has been assigned to the Philadelphia Phillies farm club at High Point in the Class B Carolina League.

Look for Van Voorhis to be a surprisingly strong entry in the Mon Valley Baseball League this season. Reportedly the Vans already have sandlot standouts like Ray Glasser, Ron Necciai, Mike Shuback, and Sharky Snyder in the fold . . . Speaking of the MVL, Commissioner George Kuvinka and league secretary Chuck Zubritsky are hard at work on a schedule for the upcoming campaign. It's quite a trick arranging a card, particularly when certain teams are able to play at home only on certain dates.

Plan Radiothon for Sharon Cagers

In Sharon, they plan all sorts of treats for the state champion basketballers. And how do you suppose they intend to raise most of the money? Well, it looks now as though a radiothon will be staged over a local station, with proceeds from the promotion to go toward gift certificates for the champion cagers . . . Myron Pottios and Bill Pentz, Charleroi High's fine footballers, spent last weekend at Purdue and Notre Dame. When asked point blank by Irish Coach Terry Brennan what he thought of the ND campus, the much-sought Pottios reportedly replied: "I think it's nice but I haven't made up my mind yet."

Today's Sports Parade —

Many Pitchers Employ Spit Ball Delivery

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—The spitball issue is before the baseball court again today, and as usual, the only thing which will happen is that everybody will get so dry arguing that nobody will be able to throw the pitch—for a few days.

The man in the diamond doghouse is Lew Burdette of the Milwaukee Braves. When he beat the Cincinnati Redlegs for the eighth straight time, manager Birdie Tebbetts screamed that he could have done it only by using the illegal spitter.

Which isn't exactly news. Mayo Smith, the pilot of the Philadelphia Phillies, made the same observation but in a quieter tone, just last June.

It is "unbelievable," quoth Mayo, "what Burdette gets away with."

Flicker Of Fire

Considering all the smoke, there is to be a flicker of fire. Yet long baseball men admit it is no secret that there are a number of effective specialists in the big leagues. And, it might be added, always have been.

Preacher Roe, hinting strongly that he had company in Sal "The Barber" Maglie admitted in print after his retirement that he "used it on" from 1948 through '54. Naturally, whenever accused during that period he made with a blanket denial.

Other noted pitchers of the spitball in recent years were Joe Page, who pitched the Yankees to pennant with it, and Hugh Casey, who lost the Dodgers a World Series game with it. It is recorded in the baseball history books that Mickey Owen missed a third strike which would have been a put-out, which would have ended the game, thus saving the game and the series for the Yankees.

Tommy Henrich in 1941 and the Yanks went on to win the ball game.

Owen's Eye Instead

"Casey aimed at me," Henrich says in vivid explanation, "but he spit in Owen's eye instead."

Many baseball men feel that, in an era where everything is designed to aid the hitter, the spitter should be brought back. Such a move has support in high places, being backed even by Commissioner Ford Frick.

So the argument continues, year after year, and so does surreptitious use of the spitball.

Qualters In 6-1 Win For Miami

Tommy Qualters, the bonus pitcher from McKeesport, got off to a fine start last night with the Miami Marlins in the nternational League.

Qualters, the property of the Philadelphia Phillies, tossed six-hit ball as the Marlins tripped the Toronot Maple Leafs, 6-1.

On Wednesday, the two teams had battled to a 3-3 tie in 16 innings.

Qualters, who pitched McKeesport High to the WPIAL title as a schoolboy, has been something less than sensational in organized ball the past two seasons. However he has looked exceptionally good this spring.

Pitcher Bill Bethel, promoted to the Richmond Virginians after a fine season with Binghamton in the Eastern League, owned his first victory in the International League today—a route-going eight hitter over Rochester.

The Virginians staked young Bethel to a four-run lead and he pitched shutout ball until the eighth, but easily registered his first win, 4-1. Last year, Bethel compiled an 11-2 won-lost record with Binghamton and he posted a neat 2.23 earned run average.

The victory was the Virginians' third in as many starts in the current season and left them with a clear lead over the field.

Michelosen Will Speak at West Newton Banquet

John Michelosen, head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, will be the main speaker at the annual West Newton High all-sports banquet.

The affair will be held Tuesday, April 30, in the parish house of Christ Lutheran Church. Once again the event will be co-sponsored by the community's three service clubs — Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis.

In addition to Michelosen, there will be other sports personalities. Invited to attend the affair are Jack Wiley, line coach at Pitt; Corny Salvaterra, Panther quarterback; Joe Walton, All-American end at Pitt; Ted Marchibroda, Pittsburgh Steeler quarterback; and John Reiger, Steeler line backer.

Additional entertainment is also planned, according to Dr. R. C. Goehring, head of the banquet committee.

Tickets are now on sale throughout West Newton at $1.75 each.

Central Sets Pace In Relay Event

MANSFIELD (UP) — Central Catholic High School of Pittsburgh led a field of 114 teams today into the final phases of the 26th annual Mansfield Relays.

Seventeen events were on tap for today for the record field of 1,336 athletes entered.

The Pennsylvania team grabbed an early lead in the Relays Friday by winning the opening four-mile relay event in 19:13 to beat out another Pennsylvania team, Mount Lebanon, which set the meet record in winning the event a year ago.

Akron North was third followed by Marion Harding and Cleveland East.

Pat Murphy, anchor man for Central Catholic, broke the two-team duel with Mount Lebanon by spurting in front midway in the final lap.

Pavella New Pro At Nemacolin

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP) — Mike Pavella, 39, pro at Washington County Club, Meadowlands, for the past 12 years, resigned Friday to become head pro at Nemacolin Country Club, Beallsville.

He succeeds Willard (Bud) Gaskill, who resigned last week.

Pavella is current Tri-State PGA champion, a title he has won three times. He won the West Penn Open in 1947 and 1955 and has qualified for the National Open eight times.

His course records include Washington County, 61, Greene County, 64, Nemacolin, 64.

Detroit Has Another Prexy

DETROIT (UP) — Harvey Hansen, 61, Detroit lumberman and a follower of the Detroit Tigers since 1911, is the new president of the American League baseball team, its third in less than a year.

Hansen's election by the board of directors Friday was unexpected since Fred Knorr, the man Hansen succeeds, was the motivating force behind the 11-man syndicate which last fall purchased the Tigers for $5,500,000.

Hansen said that there would be no changes in the Tiger field or front office staff.

Knorr, at 43 was one of the youngest presidents in recent baseball history. He now takes over as vice chairman of the board. Hansen as well as board

Ozarks Are On 'Way Back', Says Manager

Manager Tony Mascetta predicted today that his Monessen Ozarks baseballers are "on the way back."

The Ozarks, once the scourge of the Mon Valley League, hit an all-time low last season when they had to drop out of the race midway in the campaign. At that time, Mascetta was unable to round up nine players.

"Things should be different this year," enthused Mascetta. "We have a young group, which has demonstrated lots of enthusiasm in our limited drills so far."

Heading the Ozark cast again will be Pappy Johnson. He has played on just about every Ozark team.

Mound Staff

The mound staff this season will probably include Bill Mitnick, Bruce Pezzelle, Jerry Destefano, Andy Kalie and Vic Garcia. That's a pretty good hurling corps. Mitnick is regarded as one of the league's better chuckers, if not the best.

The catching job will be handled by the veteran Neil Hill.

Infield candidates include Ted Alatsis, Delmar Frew, George Diehl and Billy Yohe.

Bidding for outfield jobs are Ron Danko, Rich Zuraw, Tom Rotheram and Tony Crisi. All of those boys have had some previous MVL experience.

Zuraw and Rotheram are Charleroi products who will probably throw in with the Ozarks this season.

Eyes Schoolboys

Mascetta also has his eye on several Monessen High players who will probably sign on once the scholastic season ends. They include Carl Crawley, Sam Thorpe and Myron Sepitko.

This week there was another familiar figure working out with the Ozarks. That would be slugging Mike Young.

Young has returned home after a stint in the Cincinnati farm system. He has "inkied" that he'll play for the Ozarks.

Mascetta made it plain that all candidates are still welcome. He has summoned a practice for this afternoon at 4:30 p. m. in Ninth Street Park.

"We hope to field a young and aggressive team," said Mascetta. "We want men who play baseball for the love of it."

Hagge Sets Pace In Women's Golf

LAWTON, Okla. (UP)—Marlene Bauer Hagge, who found her touch on the greens here Friday, leads the nation's top professional women golfers into the second round of the $5,000 Lawton Women's Open golf tournament today.

Mrs. Hagge fired a pair of 35s Friday to take a three stroke lead ovre her nearest rivals — Wiffi Smith and Jackie Pung, a colorful Hawaiian shotmaker.

Betty Dodd, who is the defending champion in the tournament, was back at 77 going into the second round.

Tied at par 74 were Bonnie Rantolph, Betty Jameson and Kathy Cornelius.

Clemente Returns To Bucs Today

BROOKLYN (UP) — Pittsburgh outfielder Bob Clemente, out of action for nearly a week with a back injury, is expected to start today when the Pirates meet the Brooklyn Dodgers. Clemente, who has been suffering from backaches since spring training started, reported he felt "much better" Friday.

Ailing Golfers Appear to Be Best This Season

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — All you have to do these days to shoot good golf is to turn up sick or announce an injury.

Don January, a bad (back) man from Texas, went into the third round of the $40,000 Tournament of Champions today sporting a two-stroke lead over the other 22 champions — after shooting a course-cracking 65 Friday despite a back wrapped in old newspapers to assure warmth.

He posted a 32-33 score to add to an opening round of 78 for a 143 total. That put him two strokes in front of Billy Casper and Arnold Palmer, a couple of young buckos; and the ancient Jimmy Demaret, who always plays well where there is wind—which is a major obstacle on this flat layout.

Gene Littler has a 73-73—146—and at 147 is Dr. Cary Middlecoff, the Dallas, Tex., dentist, who is the tourney favorite.

At 148 are Dick Mayer, La Jolla, Calif., Dow Finsterwald, Tequesta, Fla., and Pete Cooper, Lakeland, Fla. The 149 scores are held by Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex., Doug Ford, the Masters champion from Mahopac, N. Y., Ed Furgol, former National Open champion from St. Andrews, Ill., and Art Wall, Pocono Manor, Pa., who won this event in 1954.

School Nines Are Idle Today

Schoolboy baseballers just can't seem to get together with the weatherman.

When there are no games scheduled, the weather is splendid. But when contests are on tap it's a different story!

Yesterday the schoolboys paused in observance of Good Friday. And it turned out to be the only real spring day of the spring.

This afternoon the valley nines will be idle, too. And more pleasant weather is in store.

The Section 17 race will resume on Monday, which probably means more rain by then.

Monday's Card

Monday's card will send Monessen to California and Monongahela to Charleroi. On Tuesday, Donora will go to Belimar.

In theory, that will complete half of the 1957 schedule. However all teams are at least one game behind in that department.

The race so far has gone pretty much as everyone predicted. Monessen provided the only real surprise of the campaign by upsetting touted Monongahela in the opener. The Hounds haven't won since then, though.

Section standings follow:

Standings

TEAM	W	L	Pct.
Charleroi	2	0	1.000
Monongahela	2	1	.667
California	1	1	.500
Monessen	1	2	.333

Pirates Run Into Podres in Game Today

BROOKLYN (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates throw their best at Brooklyn today as the Dodgers put on display their World Series hero of 1955.

It will be righthander Bob Friend against lefty Johnny Podres in the second game of the Pirates - Dodgers series at Ebbets Field.

Podres, who brought the Dodgers their only world championship, went into the Navy after the 1955 series and was released this past winter because of recurrent back trouble which had kept him out of the service earlier.

Podres showed well in spring training, especially against the Yankees, who were unable to score against him.

Friend will be making his second appearance of the season. He won the home opener for the Pirates against the Giants on Tuesday and apparently is on his usual schedule of pitching with three days rest.

The Pirates and Dodgers conclude their series with an Easter Sunday doubleheader. Vern Law and Ron Kline are scheduled for the Pirates, and Don Newcombe and Roger Craig for the Dodgers.

Tech Shooter Is 1957 Rifle Champ

WASHINGTON (UP)—Victor L. Polansky of Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, has been declared the 1957 intercollegiate rifle champion wth a score of 293 points out of a possible 300.

William Sanchez of Brooklyn Bech matched Polansky's 293 total but was placed second because he posted a 94 for his 10 standing shots compared to Polansky's 96.

The results were announced Friday by the National Rifle Association.

Set Tryouts for Little League

First of Three Sessions Will Be Held Next Saturday Afternoon

Registration and tryouts for positions on Monessen's eight Little League teams begin next Saturday.

There will be similar tryout sessions on subsequent Saturdays, May 4 and May 11. All drills will begin at 1 p. m.

Little League Player Agent John Barton said that American League hopefuls will work out at City Park while National League candidates will report to Ninth Street Park.

The leagues are divided by an imaginary boundary which starts at Third St. and Donner Ave. and continues to the intersection of Grand Blvd. and then south on Rostraver St.

All boys who live on the eastern side of this boundary must compete in the American League. Youngsters on the western side are National League tryout potentials.

Eligible Boys

The tryouts are open to all city boys between the ages of 10 and 12. Any boy who will not be 13 until April 1 is eligible for Little League ball.

According to Barton, there is a shortage of players in the 11 and 12 year age bracket. The Little League tournament teams this season will be comprised only of 12 year old boys.

The tryouts are designed primarily for boys who did not compete in the Little League program last year.

Boys who played in 1956 need not register again since they remain the property of their teams.

Candidates must attend two of the three tryout sessions to be eligible for the draft.

May 13 Draft Date

Barton has set May 13 as the tentative date for the annual draft. Rosters will be completed by May 22.

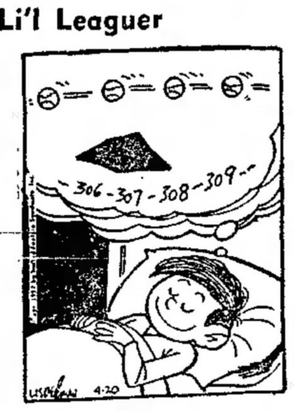
The season is scheduled to open on May 27th at 5 p. m.

The National League will begin its campaign at Memorial Stadium while the American League will play at Shawnee Park if the diamond is in condition by then.

As usual, all league managers will be on hand for the tryout sessions to look over the "rookie" prospects.

Teams in the American League include Ravens, Park Service, Page Local 1391 and Veterans of Foreign Wars. In the National League are the Lions, American Legion, Elks and USW Local 1229.

Li'l Leaguer



Belle Vernon in Double Victory

Belle Vernon Musical Society won two of three games from Monongahela in Mon Valley Bowling League action last night.

W. Titler led the way with a brilliant 606 series on scores of 184, 214 and 208.

For the losers, V. Negro had 245-583.

Sanction Water Race in Nevada

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — The American Power Boat Assn. has granted official sanction for the second annual Sahara Cup Races for the world's fastest boats on Lake Mead, Oct. 12-13. The nation's top hydroplanes and drivers are expected to compete in the race, which probably will be conducted over a three-mile course instead of last year's 2.5 mile course.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Tips on Downswing

There are a number of points at which a golf swing can go wrong But the most frequent instant of error is at the start of the downswing.

The error most often made at this point is a simple one: the player starts his "hit" too quickly. This means that the player seeks to apply maximum power from the time the backswing ends.

There are two main reasons why this power must be delayed until the time the hands pass the right trousers pocket. First, if the all-out effort is made from the top, clubhead speed will be diminished when the hitting area is reached. Second, a big hitting effort at the top of the swing is apt to pull the player off balance. This will almost certainly result in an off-center blow.

Start down smoothly. Get that left foot planted back where it was at the start. Get the weight over on the left side where it belongs. By the time you have done these things, the hands should be about half way down.

That's the time to let fly at the ball with all your CONTROLLED POWER.

Kansas Relays Lure Collegians

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UP) — A flashy Texas foursome will shoot at world records today in the 880 and 440 baton events as the main attraction in the 32nd Kansas Relays.

Some 700 athletes from more than 50 colleges and universities, including Olympic stars, were expected to mangle many of the meet records

The Texas University team of Wally Wilson, Hollis Gainey, Eddie Southern, and Bobby Whilden flashed through the 880 at the recent Texas Relays in 1:22.7, 1.3 seconds faster than the world record.

In the 440 the Texans hold a mark of 40 1, now under consideration for approval as the world record. They achieved it here last year in cracking the meet record.

World Series Stars Larsen and Podres Make Their Debuts Today

Don Larsen of the Yankees and Johnny Podres of the Dodgers, both eager to pick up where they left off, get their chance today with their first official starts since pitching the games that made each a national hero.

Larsen faces the Red Sox today in his first regulation appearance since hurling a perfect game against Brooklyn in the World Series last fall, and Podres, who served an interim hitch in the Navy, opposes the Pirates in his first official outing since he beat the Yankees, 2-0, in the seventh game of the 1955 World Series

Larsen insists he is going to try to extend his perfect skein today against Boston as long as possible although he hasn't been especially impressive in exhibitions this spring.

To Oppose Nixon

He will be opposed by knuckleballer Willard Nixon, who won nine games last season, three of them against the Yankees.

Unlike Larsen, the left-handed Podres has been something of a sensation with the Dodgers this spring. Save for one inning against Milwaukee on March 14 when he gave up eight runs, he yielded only five runs in 31 innings for an earned run average of 1.45.

Opposing Podres will be Pittsburgh ace Bob Friend, with one victory to his credit already this season.

The Milwaukee Braves, who like the Dodgers have won their first two games, are sending Ray Crone against Brooks Lawrence of Cincinnati.

Manager Mayo Smith of the Phillies, looking for his first victory after two straight setbacks, is sending left-hander Harvey Haddix (13-8) against the Giants. Bill Rigney will counter with either Al Worthington (7-14) or Johnny Antonelli.

Cubs, Cards Tangle

In the other game scheduled in the National League, Don Kaiser, one of the Chicago Cubs' promising young pitchers who is better than his 4-9 record of last season indicates, is slated to go against Lindy McDaniel (7-6) of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Detroit, which has dropped its first three games, hopes to register its first victory today at the expense of Early Wynn (20-9) of Cleveland. Either Frank Lary, a 21-game winner last year who lost this year's opener, or Paul Foytack (15-13) will go for the Tigers.

Dick Donovan (12-10) will be trying to pitch the White Sox to their third straight victory and he'll be opposed by either Tom Gorman (9-10) or rookie Gene Host of the Athletics.

Lanky Connie Johnson, who won nine games and lost 11 for Baltimore, is slated to face Camilo Pascual of Washington.

There were no games scheduled in the majors Friday.

Beecham Scores Win Over Mims

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UP) — Jimmy Beecham, a diet-conscious "smoothie" from Miami, today attributed his revenge victory over Holly Mims to the seven pounds he lost since last November.

Beecham scaled 153 pounds Friday night when he punched his way to a majority 10-round decision over Mims in their return TV fight at the Miami Beach Auditorium. That was exactly seven pounds less than he weighed in their first meeting last Nov. 13, which Mims won on a close decision.

"I felt much better this time and I think the weight I dropped made a big difference," Beecham conceded. He added he plans to campaign mainly as a welterweight in the future and expects to have no trouble getting down to that division's 147-pound limit.

Basquez Signs For Chicago Bout

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (UP)—Detroit boxing promoter Nick Londes revealed Friday he has signed Baby Basquez, Mexican lightweight champion, and Kenny Lane of Muskegon, Mich., for a 10-round nationally televised bout Wednesday, May 22, at Detroit.

Bold Ruler Is Favored Today In Wood Memorial

By UNITED PRESS

Several equine reservations for the Kentucky Derby are expected to be filled today when Bold Ruler leads a seven-horse field postward in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica, while 15 three-year-olds match strides in the Chesapeake Stakes at Laurel.

These are the East's final tuneups for the Rose Run at Churchill Downs May 4, so they will be watched closely by horse players who still are looking for a colt good enough to beat Calumet Farm's Gen. Duke, the Future Book favorite for the Derby.

Bold Ruler has not raced since finishing second behind Gen. Duke in the Florida Derby, March 30, but has been training well since his return to New York and is expected to be the odds-on choice in the Wood.

Named to oppose the Wheatley Stable whiz in the mile and one-eighth event, which will be nationally televised (CBS), were Mister Jive, Ambehaving, Jocko's Walk, Promised Land, Gallant Man and Tenacious. Jocko's Walk is the only Wood starter not eligible for the Derby.

Only five Derby eligibles are in the bulky Chesapeake field. They are Pro-Brandy, Dark Trust, Roscoe Maney, The Hammer and Federal Judge—none of whom are considered good enough to merit a trip to Louisville unless they win "big" today.

Rams Sign Aide To Football Staff

LOS ANGELES (UP) — George Allen, coach at Whittier, Calif., College for the last six seasons, has signed as a coach with the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League. Allen, 35, a native of Detroit, attended Marquette University during World War II in the Navy's officer training program and played end there in 1943. He previously coached at Morningside College in Iowa.

Golden hamsters are among the most prolific of all mammals. Millions in captivity today are descended from a single litter of 12 found in a burrow near Aleppo, Syria, in 1930, according to the National Geographic Society.

SETTING THAT WORLD MARK — 16-year-old Nancy Ramey swims to a new world record of 1:02.9 in qualifying heat of the 100 yard butterfly stroke at women's senior National AAU swimming and diving meet in Los Angeles. The Seattle, Wash., miss broke Shelley Mann's existing world mark of 1.04 1.

Plan Film Patrol at Waterford

A film patrol will be one of the new features of the 59-day Waterford Park race meet which opens Saturday, April 27.

The towers are now being erected at the one-mile track to be used to take moving pictures of all the races.

The movies will help the Waterford stewards to see that the races are fairly run and, also, to determine who is at fault when a foul is claimed.

Two temporary film patrol towers were brought in from Garden State Park race track, Camden, N. J. They will be used until the permanent Waterford towers are erected.

J. Gilbert Haus, racing secretary at Delaware Park race track, will serve in the same capacity at Waterford. His job is to write the conditions for each race.

Horses Arriving

Horses are arriving at Waterford just as rapidly as they can be vanned from various racing centers.

Approximately 1,000 horses will be bedded down by the time the bugle blows to call the horses to the post for the first of the 531 races that will be contested between next Saturday and July 4.

Post time at Waterford will be 2 p. m. and nine races will be run daily.

This is the earliest race meet ever held at Waterford and it will also be the longest. The track opened the end of May last year.

Pittsburgh Stable

Keystone Stable of Pittsburgh, owned by D. L. Reynolds and J. F. Docherty, will be shooting for some of the Waterford purse money. Pat McGuire trains the Keystone horses.

The Bodnar Brothers stable of Cleveland, Ohio, will also be back. H. Searcy arrived with a van load of horses from Gulfstream Park in Florida.

Two outstanding jockeys, who will be riding at Waterford, are Clark and Joe Snyder.

Hoad Still Not Under Contract To Turn Pro

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — The world's top amateur tennis player and the man who controls the sport's highest-ranking professionals were in apparent agreement today — Lew Hoad of Australia hasn't any immediate plans to join the ranks of the "play-for-pay" contingent.

Promoter Jack Kramer Friday vigorously denied that he had announced that the Australian amateur star had turned professional. He replied to a Los Angeles Examiner report that Hoad had gone for a deal whereby he could receive a record $125,000 to turn pro.

Hoad boarded a plane in New York for Rome before he had a chance to comment on the story but he did say that his injured back was "as good as gold" and that he had no plans to play for money.

Kramer said he wanted it "distinctly understood" that he had not signed Hoad to a contract, "although I certainly would be the first to admit that I would like to get him."

Kelly Carries American Hopes In Boston Race

BOSTON (UP)—American hopes in the annual Boston A.A. Marathon rested on the thin shoulders of school teacher Johnny Kelley in the 61st running today of the famed foot race.

The curly-haired, boyish-looking Kelley was trying to crack a stranglehold on the 26-mile, 385-yard classic by foreign runners since 1946.

The 26-year-old younger Kelley, who teaches school at Groton, Conn., when not pounding pavements for fun, was matched against a field of 10 foreign runners — two of them former winners.

Japan's Keizo Yamada captured the classic in 1953, beating out Finland's Veikko Karvonen on the stretch up Exeter Street. Karvonen, a 31-year-old postal clerk, breezed home first the following year.

Five Day Forecast

Western Pennsylvania Temperature will average seven to 10 degrees above normal. Warm throughout period but cooler Sunday and Monday. Warmer Tuesday and Wednesday. Showers and thunderstorms Saturday and possibly over south portion Sunday. Showers or thunderstorms likely again by Tuesday. Total precipitation one to two inches.

Amazing Winkler Oil Burner Will Heat Home Economically

If you are having a heating problem in your home, now during the warm-weather months is the time to let the Monessen Heating & Roofing firm, 445 Schoonmaker avenue, Phone MU 4-6313, solve it for you by installing either a Winkler oil burner or a G-E automatic gas furnace.

That Winkler oil burner is a real economy. Just look at this:

Economy No. 1. The LP eliminates excessive service cost caused by nozzle clogging, and filter and strainer stoppage. The LP nozzle does not clog. The LP uses no filters and the coarse strainer does not stop up. Notice comparative nozzle openings below.

Economy No. 2. When one gallon of No. 3 fuel oil is burned 140,000 B. T. U. (heat units) are released. Most conventional home type burners are installed with nozzles as large, or larger, than one and one-fourth gallons per hour to prevent clogging — thus releasing 175,000 B. T. U. per hour, or more. The average home heating plant is designed to absorb and transfer approximately 100,000 B. T. U. per hour, and with one and one-fourth g.p.h. nozzle, so much heat is excessively high and much of the heat is wasted. The three-fourth g.p.h. LP Burner releases 105,000 b.t.u. — just the correct amount for the heating load, and the heating plant can absorb it efficiently without high stack loses.

Economy No. 3. Most oil burners because they are oversized to prevent service — have short operating periods and seldom achieve maximum efficiency. (Comparable to driving your car for the first few minutes with a cold engine.) Since the LP is actually sized to the heating plant, it operates longer periods, thus achieving maximum efficiency.

Economy No. 4. Conventional burners are critical of oils, requiring No. 3 or lighter. They are particularly critical of hard cracked oils. The LP will burn the very domestic oils. It does not require a high priced highly refined oil.

Try This 3-Minute Quiz

1. Did your present burner operate all last season without nozzle cleaning or replacement? It is a fact that the new hard cracked oils (catalytic or other) contribute greatly to high service costs of high pressure burner nozzles. The LP nozzle does not clog. You save money on service.

2. What is the nozzle size on your present burner? If it is one gallon per hour or larger, you can be wasting up to 65 per cent of the heat value in your fuel simply because the heating plant cannot absorb the heat as fast as it is being released. LP Burners are available in capacities as small as 2 quarts per hour.

3. Does your burner have longer, efficient operations? If not, then it's almost a cinch that wasteful overfiring (large nozzle) is responsible for short runs and inefficient operation. The LP releases just the amount of heat the heating plant can absorb efficiently, thus permitting longer, top efficiency operating periods.

4. Is the inside of your heating plant clean and free from soot? Soot, caused by inefficient combustion covers heat absorption surfaces, insulates them and prevents heat absorption surfaces, insulates them and prevents heat transfer. Heat vanishes up chimney. Heat loss due to soot formation in heating plant is avoided with a Winkler LP installation.

5 Will your present burner operate on hard cracked oil: Future of oil industry points to more and more hard cracked oil which definitely is more difficult to burn. Type, gravity or cleanliness of oil means practically nothing to the LP. Whatever the future characteristics of oil, the LP will burn them and will burn them more economically than conventional burners. For proof see the Winkler LP demonstration.

6. Are you certain that your present burner is heating your home as economically as possible? There are many LP Burner installations on record where fuel costs have been reduced drastically — up to 65 per cent of the amount of fuel previously burned. A Winkler Low Pressure Burner installation can pay for itself in fuel savings.

(If your answer to any of these questions is "No" — or you are not certain of the answer — then let us make a free "Efficiency Combustion Check" of your heating plant and burner. There is no obligation and we will render a full report based on our analysis with laboratory type instruments.)

Ratica; seven sons, Paul, George, of Swissvale; Edward, of Monessen; Theodore, of San Francisco, Calif.; Walter V., of Duquesne and Method and Cyril, both at home; two daughters, Mrs. William (Margaret) Frenchek, of Duquesne, and Ann, wife of the Very Rev. Alexander Semavsky, of Jacksonville, Fla. Friends are being received at the Check Home for Funerals, 100 Schoonmaker Ave., where brief funeral services will be held Monday, April 22, at 9 a. m. Additional services will follow at 9:30 from St. John the Divine Russian Orthodox Church, with the Very Rev. John Govrusik, pastor of the St. John the Divine Russian Orthodox Church officiating. Interment will be in Grandview Cemetery. John L. Kravets, funeral director.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Anna Choban, who died two years ago today, April 20, 1955.
As God's golden sun showers
Mother's grave today,
Our hearts are filled with longing,
A prayer to hear her say
That she is watching o'er us
And keeping us from wrong,
And though she was taken from us,
We know it won't be for long.
We'll join her up in Heaven
Where she'll part from us no more,
And we'll see her smile so sweetly
As we did in days of yore.
Take her in Thine arms, dear lord
And ever let her be
A messenger of love
Between our hearts and Thee
Sadly missed by Husband, Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Charles W. Smith, who departed this life nine years ago today, April 20, 1948.
Death cast it's pall o'er us all,
When God to you, issued His call.
To dwell with Him in heaven above
In that fair land of light and love,
And we now wait to join you there
In that City Four-Square.
Sadly missed by his wife, Freda and sons, Wayne, Kenneth and Donald

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Clemmie Braddock, who died four years ago tomorrow, April 21, 1954.
'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again,
Where troubles are no more,
And the one we loved so dearly,
Has just gone on before.
It's lonesome here without you,
And sad and weary the way,
For life has not been the same to us,
Since you were called away.
Sadly missed by Husband, Daughters and Grandchildren

In loving memory of John E. Margerum, who departed this life 11 years ago today, April 20, 1946.
There is a bend in the road
That we cannot see beyond
As it winds the distant hill,
And we know that the traveler lost in view,
Goes journeying onward still.
So we think of the welcome of love that waits
In the peaceful and bright abode,
Which will meet our view
When we journey too,
Beyond the end of the road.
Sadly missed by mother, Mattie Keller, Joycie and Genevia Hough

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Ellego who died five years ago today, April 20, 1952.
We do not forget you,
Nor do we intend,
We think of you daily
And will to the end.
Gone and forgotten by
Some you may be,
But dear to our memory
Forever you'll be.
Sadly missed by husband, John Ellego and Mr. and Mrs. Einar Ruokonen and Ronald

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Joseph Damore, who died four years ago today, April 20, 1953.
We live today with mrmories
Of days when you were here.
We miss you still and always will
Throughout each day and year.
At night when all is silent
And sleep forsakes our eyes
Our thoughts are in that lonely grave
Where our dear loved one lies.
Sadly missed by Children and Grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear friend, Rev. H. A. S. Cooke, who died four years ago, April 21, 1953.
He was a Pastor, Shepherd, and Counsellor; he worked in love, wisdom, humility, with courage. Patience joy and self-denial. Only God could have enabled him to serve as he served. His motto seemed to be: "Give me, Savior, a purpose deep, In joy or sorrow thy trust to keep And so thru trouble, care and strife, Guide thee in my daily life Give me life, 'Twill soon be past, God's what's done for Christ will last."
Sadly missed by his friend, Rev. Philip L. Greene

LEGAL NOTICE

SALE OF BONDS
BOROUGH OF BELLE VERNON
$27,000.00

Sealed bids will be received by the Borough of Belle Vernon, Fayette County, Pennsylvania, at the Borough Building, Water Street, Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania, until 7:30 P. M. E. D. S. T. and will be opened immediately thereafter on Monday, May 13th, 1957, for the purchase of $27,000.00 par value general obligation coupon bonds of the Borough. The bonds are of the denomination of $1,000.00 each, registrable as to principal only, dated May 1st, 1957, and mature in the order of their number as follows: — Two bonds ($2,000.00) on May first of the years 1958 to 1966 inclusive, and three bonds ($3,000.00) on May first of the years 1967 to 1969, inclusive, with interest payable May first and November first in each year. The principal and interest are payable without deduction for any taxes (except gift, succession or inheritance taxes) levied pursuant to any present or future law of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Each bid shall specify in a multiple of one-eighth of one percent a single rate of interest which the bonds are to bear and shall be accompanied by cash or a certified or cashier's or treasurer's check drawn to the order of the Borough in the sum of $540.00 as security for the performance of such bid.

Bids shall be addressed to Joseph E. Ferrari, Borough Secretary, 21 Adams Avenue, Belle Vernon, Pennsylvania, and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope sufficiently labeled to indicate that it is a bid for these bonds.

The bonds will be sold to the highest responsible bidder subject to approval of the authorizing proceedings by the Department of Internal Affairs of Pennsylvania. No bid for less than par and accrued interest or for less than all of the bonds will be accepted.

The purchaser will receive without charge the opinion of Messrs. Burgwin, Ruffin, Perry & Pohl of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, that the bonds are valid, general obligations of the Borough payable from ad valorem taxes levied on all taxable real property within the Borough without limitation of rate or amount.

The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

By order of the Council of the Borough,

Joseph E. Ferrari,
Borough Secretary
John E. Costello, Esq.,

Jill Corey Is Home for Easter

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Jill Corey, a small town girl who made good in the entertainment world, has come back home.

The 21-year-old singer, who comes from Avonmore in Westmoreland County, arrived here for a half-work, half-vacation visit. She will be the featured attraction Easter Day at the Gateway Center Pageant here.

Today, Jill attended Good Friday services at her home town church, St. Ambrose's. Then she relaxed with her family and numerous relatives in Avonmore which has a population of 1,386.

"When I want to go somewhere and relax, I go back to Avonmore," she said. "I put on a pair of old dungarees and a shirt and sit home having a wonderful time doing nothing."

Star Junction Student Wins National Contest for Poetry

A junior at Perry-Lower Tyrone High School, Nanci Meredith Hanam, of Star Junction, has been honored as a winner in the national high school poetry contest.

Nanci submitted her poem, "My Town", in the contest which is open to all secondary school students. Of the two poems, she submitted, "My Town" was chosen for publication in the book.

Nanci is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hanam, of Star Junction.

Nanci Meredith Hanam

"My Town"
This is my town,
The place of my birth.
A town of elation,
Depression, sadness and mirth.
A glad-to-be for some;
A have-to for others
A place we come to or go from
To be with our brothers.
Here, to some shines the light of hope.
You see, they had problems
With which they were unable to cope.
And yes, even a drawback
To those who are forgetting:
"For success, you don't need a setting."
Everyday a great war is fought
The battle of life,
Tried, tested won or lost;
Without even one thought.

Mrs. Simon Rider, of Perryopolis, is recuperating at her home in Perryopolis after undergoing surgery at Magee Hospital, Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Verba, of Vanderbilt, are announcing the birth of a son in the Connellsville Hospital.

Large Crowds Attend Good Friday Services

Every section of Good Friday services here yesterday attracted large crowds.

The service, under the sponsorship of the Ministerial Association, was held in the Methodist Church.

The Methodist Choir opened the service after a 15 minute organ prelude by Mrs. Wilbur Evans. Ministers taking part included:

A. W. Smith, pastor of Hopwood Methodist Church; the Rev. J. D. Percy, of Lynnwood Lutheran Church; the Rev. W. T. Swager, of Ebenezer Methodist Church, Mr. John Bowers, of the Church of Christ; the Rev. D. Earl Daniel, of Fayette City Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Harry W. Beveridge, of the Methodist Church and William Clinefelter, missionary elder of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints.

Musical selections were presented by William Ciavarra, Mike Hancock, mixed chorus from the Church of Christ, Mrs. Fred Brightwell, Mrs. Wellington Baldwin and combined choirs.

Choirs to Present Easter Service

The combined choirs of the Fayette City Presbyterian Church will be heard at the Easter morning service at 11 a. m.

The special music is under the direction of Mrs. George Troth, Mrs. Carl Frantz is organist and Mrs. D. Earl Daniel will be at the piano.

There will be a baptismal and reception of new members as well as a brief Easter message by the pastor, the Rev. D. Earl Daniel.

Mrs. James Welch left Thursday evening to spend the Easter vacation with her sisters-in-law, Sally Welch and Mrs. Helen Stabeline at their home in Carlisle.

VFW Auxiliary In Installation Ceremony Here

Officers of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post of Perryopolis and its Auxiliary were installed recently by James Lamanna and Kathryn Richardson.

Installed as Post officers were the following:

Auxiliary members installed were:

Pauline Timko, president; Bernice Nicholls, senior vice president; Edna Radishak, junior vice president; Josephine Angelo, treasurer; Mary Vrabel, chaplain; Betty Dreon, conductress; Viola Freeman, guard; Lucille Brewer, secretary; May Stickel, patriotic instructor; Margaret Chubboy, historian; Mary Gerda, Hattie Smith, Amelia Crawford and Freda McClellan, color bearers; Sil Statzula, banner bearer; Edna Richter, flag bearer and Lucille Brewer, trustee.

Mr. and Mrs. James Oswald, of Vanderbilt, are announcing the birth of a son at the Connellsville Hospital.

Youth to Hold Sunrise Service Here Tomorrow

The Youth Fellowship and Chi Rho Youth of the Perryopolis Christian Church will hold a sunrise service at the Church tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock.

Organ prelude will be by James Blair. Larry Luce will deliver the invocation, followed by a hymn by the congregation and Scripture reading by Lorraine Baroffio.

A poem, "Legend of the Dogwood Tree", will be given by Barbara Demko and a prayer by Tommy Hutchinson. Jeanne Stickle will read "The Chaplain's Meditation." Jimmy Greene, Dick Greene and Tommy Hutchinson will be in charge of the offering.

Babette Myers and Carol Sager will sing, "The Prayer Perfect" with Barry Lepley at the organ. A poem, "Resurrection" will be given by Mary Belle Baumgardner. Benediction will be by Larry McKee.

Counselor for the Christian Youth Fellowship is June Rolison while leader for the Chi Rho group is Mrs. Harold Sager.

Your Health—

Poor Posture Cause of Fatigue

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

When you're tired, you usually sit down to rest.

However, you can get tired just by sitting, too.

If those of you who work in an office, or at any kinddof a desk job all day long, feel fatigued and dragged out after work it may be because you sit incorrectly.

Good posture while sitting is just as important as proper posture while standing or walking.

Let me give you a little advice on how to sit properly. It may help keep you from tiring so easily.

When working, make sure you have a firm chair. Height of the seat should be the same as the length of your leg from the back of the knee to the bottom of the heel.

Don't sit on the end of your spine. Instead, sit on the back of your thighs.

Sit tall. Hold you head and trunk erect. Your body should be centered over your pelvis or tilted forward slightly.

Your knees should be flexed and at right angles.

As I have told you before, proper posture will become a habit — a good habit — if you practice it long enough. On the other hand, poor posture also can become a habit, a habit that is difficult to break.

No matter what kind of work you do, you can do it more efficiently and easily if you maintain proper posture while either sitting or standing. At the same time, your body can work more efficiently and more easily.

If you don't sit or stand properly, your blood circulation is apt to slow down, your breathing will become shallow and your lungs won't get the proper exercise.

Eventually you'll become tired. And when you're tired you just can't do your best work.

So, straighten up and sit right.

Question and Answer

J. M. B.: What causes buzzing and ringing in the ears?

Answer: This condition may be due to anemia, kidney disease, accumulation of wax in the ear, or an infection in the tube connecting the ear with the mouth.

A physical examination is necessary to determine the casue of this condition.

Jack Benny to Give Concert Tuesday Night

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The newest rage of the concert world will bow to the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra Tuesday night, tuck his violin next to his white tie and play he hopes.

Aline Mosby

Jack Benny dragged out his violin on his radio and TV shows, but now he's graduated into longhair music halls and gained a new "career."

A year ago Benny made his concert debut in Oklahoma City, followed by concerts in New York's Carnegie Hall and Philadelphia Orchestras in other cities were so stunned they flooded Benny with offers. His 1957 benefit concert tour begins here and moves to Washington, Chicago, Boston, San Francisco and London.

But the new concert star is taking it all very humbly.

"Actually, I'm pretty lousy," confessed Jack. "I don't play at all. But I get through the numbers and I try to play as well as I can.

"People who think I can't play are surprised. Some figure I'll just tell jokes and try 'Love in Bloom.' But I do these as legit as any concert.

"Mary can't stand my playing," he added sadly. "She says I should be billed, 'Jack Benny and his Frightful Fiddle.'"

At the April 3 concert, for the benefit of Cedars of Lebanon Hospital, Jack will play the first movement of a Mendelssohn concerto plus other classical numbers. He's been practicing daily and unfortunately always plays better while practicing than on the stage, he said.

"I get stage fright. I guess because I'm playing in front of great musicians," he said.

Benny has been wielding a bow arm since the age of 6. His first paying violin job was with a vaudeville orchestra. Before long he was playing on the stage. Finally the fiddle became a comedy prop, until today it is as much a part of the Benny legend as gags about his stinginess, Maxwell car and perennial 39-year-old age.

Summer Cooling Spreading

Modernizing with air conditioning! It is expected that the installation of summer cooling equipment will set new records in 1957.

As a means of directing attention to the progress that has been made in recent years in cooling as well as heating the industries have designated May as Plumbing — Heating — Cooling Month.

During this period contractors will offer free surveys of homes to determine the most practical way to provide year round comfort with hot water in the winter and chilled water in the summer.

There are two ways of providing cooling for homes heated with hot water. One method combines the two functions of heating and cooling. The other separates them.

In the combined system forced convectors in rooms provide both heating and cooling depending on the season. A boiler supplies the distributing units with hot water for heating, a chiller, cold water for cooling.

Each convector has a built-in fan with graduated speed settings. By varying the output of cool or warm air the room temperature can be adjusted upward or downward as desired.

In a split system, where heating and cooling are separate functions performed by separate equipment it is customary to put the cooling unit in a dropped ceiling enclosure with duct passages radiating from it to grille openings in various rooms.

In winter, heat is provided by a boiler and distributed throughout the house by baseboards, convectors, radiators, or panels.

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A COLLAPSIBLE WORKBENCH

A workbench that can be folded when not in use is ideal for the handyman with limited working space, such as in a garage. Except for the braces and back, 2 by 6-inch lumber is used throughout.

First, make the frame. Mark the location of the four butt hinges. The two outside hinges are 2 inches in from the ends; the inside hinges are 19½ inches in from the ends. Recess the hinges. The frame is assembled with butt joints using glue and No. 10 wood screws, 2¾ inches long.

The bench is made by edge gluing and dowel jointing six pieces of 2 by 6's. Holes for the dowel pins are drilled ¾ inches in diameter and 2 inches deep. Mark the location of the hinges on the back edge of the bench.

The 2 by 4-inch braces are fastened with hinges to the base of the wall as shown. The hinges for the underside of the bench are installed in the reverse position to that shown for the base hinges. By removing the base hinge pins, the bench may be closed when not in use.

Attach the hooks and eyes on the frame and bench.

A peg-board back may be added for ease in hanging tools.

Spring Is Inspection Time

Spring is traditionally house cleaning time but it also should be house inspection time. A house takes a lot of punishment from winter's blasts — punishment which can result in costly damage.

This is especially true of the roof, which is a home's first line of defense against snow and ice. The weight and movement of snow and ice often can start serious trouble, especially if the roof is an old one.

A good time to check the roof is in the spring after the first heavy rain. Look at the underside of the roof deck, check the rafters carefully, and look closely at areas around the chimney and soil stacks.

Any signs of dampness may mean the roof is leaking. It is wise then to call in a reputable roofing contractor for a professional inspection. Perhaps the dampness is caused by condensation and your attic simply needs more ventilation. But if the cause is a leaky roof, you may need a new one right away to prevent costly interior damage.

An Extra Bathroom Necessary

Perhaps the most universal plumbing need in home expansion projects is for additional bathroom facilities. In homes where there are more than two in a family one bathroom is sure to be a problem.

The ease with which a second bathroom can be installed in an existing house whether it is a conventional two-story house or a bungalow or ranch house is being emphasized by the plumbing industry at this time. The month of May has been designated as Plumbing — Heating — Cooling Month.

During this period plumbing contractors are offering free surveys of homes, apartments, and other buildings to advise where an additional bathroom or a half bath can be installed most economically.

As an additional inducement for this type of modernization work plumbing contractors will offer a package deal. This means that they will take the responsibility for coordinating the work of all persons involved in providing a new bathroom or powder room.

Not every old or aged house has room for additional plumbing facilities. Sometimes a hall end a pantry part of a bedroom that is unnecessarily large or a large closet that will provide enough space for the fixtures.

If necessary all of the fixtures for a bathroom will fit in a space not larger than 5' x 5'. It is better, however, to allow at least 6' x 8'. The two fixtures for a powder room can be accommodated in a space approximately 4' x 4' equipped by a picture frame that

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q — Will insulation in the floors above a crawl space make the floors warmer? If so, how can I get it to stay in place?

A — Thick mineral wool batts of blankets installed between the floor joists will keep cold out of the floors. The batts or blankets can be held in place by lengths of chicken wire stapled along the joists.

Q — How can decals be removed from a wall when repainting?

A — An electric iron or broad-based soldering iron over a wet cloth usually will peel decals off quickly.

Q — Our home which was built about 15 years ago has a nearly flat roof. Now the roof is weathered and needs replacing. Is there any material we can use that is more colorful than the original dull black roof and will give good service?

A — If the roof slopes at least two inches in each horizontal foot asphalt shingles can be applied by a method developed especially for low-slope roofs. The asphalt shingles are available in practically every color imaginable and will give long-lasting weather protection as well as exterior color. Incidentally, houses built low to the ground appear taller and larger if the roof is covered in a light color.

Match Pictures With the Doors

One of the newest ways to give a room more interest and individuality in its decorating scheme is to match picture frames with the panels of panel doors.

Many doors of ponderosa pine come with unusual and distinctive panels in modern and traditional styles. 'Stealing' the shapes of these panels and reproducing them in picture frames offer two important advantages in decorating. They are:

1. Color. Both the door and picture frames can be painted the same color, or stained in warm natural wood finishes.

2. Unity. Each time the shape and color of a door panel is picked up by a picture frame that is the third pole located at the conventional 5'8" height for full-length garments and garment bags.

Closets Are Notorious for Waste Space

Closets are notorious for their waste space.

A smart designer now has come up with a plan for doubling the storage capacity of any new or remodeled closet that's 6 feet wide and has a centrally-situated door.

Highlights of the plan are three poles instead of one, roomy shelving and lining the back and door with Masonite "Peg-Board" panels.

Two poles are situated one over the other in one wing. Extending from front to back they are used for hanging jacket-length garments. Installed in the other wing is the third pole located at the conventional 5'8" height for full-length garments and garment bags.

Does Porch Need Some Remodeling?

Does your porch need remodeling?

You can have a modern room with such features as a music unit, record storage, sewing facilities, an unusual table on pipe legs and a "working wall" which may be used for storage or a hobby display.

The time to get started for more summer pleasures right at home this year is right now.

Forget your "fair weather" porch for an "all-weather" one that will become an ideal living area excellent for entertaining, televiewing, reading, sewing or relaxing.
